Habrerd at possiother as New Autonomorphism matter.

Wednesday, March 26, 1884.

The loner outer has recently losen operating in Correll county, near Engle Springs, the partite feter of Mr. A. Smith, of that neighborhood, having been amuniarytion.

The Laury has received the Texas World, published at Dallis by J. C. Hard, formerly of the Fee Laredo at Laredo. The Texas World is a nest sky-soloum paper, independent in politics, and gives roomise of the good success that the Lagur wishes for it.

promise of the good access that the Lacut wishes for it.

The grand jury having got in its work speaks the city and county officials, for an alleged neglect of duty, it remains to be seen if it will parout in proper shape, and if he indictments are really pushed to a full proceention, it is no figure of speech to say that there will be some of the buddest kind of music in the air in a short time.

short time.

Tim: Brenham: Banner philosopher, speaking of the deep water scheme at failveston, says: "An appropriation by the State will meet with great opposition, especially at the hands of the present generation of mossbacks, of whom there are not a few in Texas. In fact, the mossback is to be found everywhere—he is confined to as State and to no special locality. The matter of deep water is of vast importance, and it should be kept constantly before the public."

water is of yast importance, and it should be kept constantly before the public."

Tan Federal Jodgship question has at fast been estitled in Texas by the nomination, by the President, of Judge C, B, sabin, of Galveston, A, E, Stratton was nominated United States Attorney for the Eastern district, J. G, Tracy, of Houston, Barshal, W, M, Taylor, Collector of Customs for the district of El Paso, and James O. Luby, Collector of Customs for the district of El Paso, and James O. Luby, Collector of Customs for the district of Brazos de Santiago. Colonel Dayld's Stanley was also nominated for Brigadier General.

The El Paso Lone Star and the Times are 'poking sticks' at the editor of the Iderald, of that city, for his attempt to that office, demanding that it retract a statement previously made "before sendown." The Times man "stood pat," whereupon the Herald andertook to crawl out of a very small hole under the plea that he was not a duelist, and simply wrise the mote to fix the Identity of the nutbor of the objectionable article. Nowspaper wars are generally city singuine in words, but this seems to be the most reficultous of any reported for a long time, and the Lawrent so the Premises.

Sexasary of the State Republican consimiles the Times for its manly stant in the premises.

Second of the State Republican convention to be held at Yort Worth on April 28, the Texas World most traity says. "It is of the greatest importance to all Republicans are selected as delegates to tike convention, that they do not permit it to be made up of the rabble and riff raff of the so-called Republicans and self-constituted politicans of the party. The Republicans party if properly organized, is stronger in Toxas than many of the Southern States. All it needs to exert its influence is to properly organize in the hands of groot men in whom the people may have confidence, and many intelligent and honest men with come to the support of the Republican party."

A Lassis number of papers have been come to the support of the Republican party."

A Lancis mumber of papers have been attempting to make heroes out of Ben Thompson and King Flaker. The following from the Brenham Banner shows that many of the stories about these men are more fabrications, after the style of the "eye-witness" statements made regarding the killings "The fine sensational story published in the Houston Post about King Flaker being presented to Horzee Greeley when that gentleman was present at an agricultural fair in 1873 or 1874, at Brenham, as a typical Texas desperado, reads well, and would do first rais except for one thing; Horzee Greeley never made a speech at a fair in Brenham. He did, however, passtatough hore on the cars."

Usyna a severe case of "quickened conscience" the Gatesville Advance reverses the usual order of things, and pays tribute to the worth of the daily pages in the State, for their liberality in exchanging with their brethern of the country press, in the following: "We are free to grant that the spirit of liberality is not old, but it is nevertheless shown to us weekly editors, and as such should be appreciated. For one, we should not like to part from any of our daily exchanges. They come each day, and each night we converse with their editors and steal their crisp paragraphs and brief news items. Editing a paper without them would be like washing the shirt of a candidate without soap. May they live long, and may they never grunble when we steal their tiems or amose their polities."

Thus Memphis Avalanche, discussing

abuse their politics."

The Memphis Avalanche, discussing the tariff question, says, "Owing to bigher wages the consuming capacity of the 400,000 persons employed in American sheps and mines is equal to the co-similing capacity of nearly $000,000 persons aimilarity employed in England What the free traders are trying to do to reduce the wages of all these 4,000,00 persons and drive a large number them into agricultural employment There would then be fewer mechanical contenting farm predicts, more farm preducts. There would then be fewer mechanics to consume farm products, more farm produces, and the consuming power of mechanics reduced one-half. When the free trade food's paradise shall be fairly reached John Boll will six prices of American exports and imports, and the Tennessee Congressman's British was blanket will cost him 25 per cent, more than just as good a blanket of American manufacture costs now; and the farm will get 25 cents less per bushel for his wheat than he does now."

The following sensible sentence from a English paper is not without applies will get 25 cents less per same in me wheat fram he does now."

The following sensible sentence from an English paper is not without application in this country. It says: "We pride ourselves upon moving fast in these times, and look upon the more sober doings of our ancestors with contempt. But after all there is little common sense in a system of business which brings with it disastrous sheeks in commercial operations every seven years or or. It certainly would be far better if some means could be derived by which commerce and industry could be pisced upon a more solid and reliable basis. We seem, in the present day, to be cursed beyond measure with reckless impatience. We must carry our our projects all at once, and onest realize our projects all at once, and sher we have realized them we appear to be equally inclined to dissipate as fast as we can. To put the matter in other words, commerce goes too fast in these days, and society goes too fast also. In the first case the result is too often disappointment and bankruptey, and in the second case it is, aba, too often exhaustion and use the result is too often disappoint-ment and bankruptey, and in the second case it is, also, too often exhaustion and premature death."

premiure death."

"Throw is a suspicious uniformity of tone and statement," says the Chicago Times, "in the numerous sileged interviews with Mr. Tilden, which have broken out lately on the pages of certain newspapers. The interviews concur in representing themselves as devoted admirers of the veteran statesman, and is filled with gloom and regret at his declaration to them of an unalterable resolve not to accept a nomination from the coming Presidential convention. Without pretending to infimate knowledge of Mr. Tilden's purposes, the Times entertains a very condicted belief, which is starred by those in a position to be well informed, that that gentleman will be nominated by a practically unanimous vote when the convention meets, and that the refusal of such a nomination is be noninated by a practically manner, as vote when the convention meets, as that the refusal of such a nonination one of the least probable of all possible events. The close family resemblane of the "interviews" referred to suggest a common origin; and there is a ration of the "interviews" referred to suggests a coimmon origin; and there is a rational suspicion that they are the product of a "ifterary burean" lately organized by a New York politician of limited shifty but enormous ambition, who persiats in thinking that if the "old ticket" could only be persuaded to leave the field he might become a presidential possibility. Democrats will be entirely safe in helieving that if Mr. Tilden wished to amounce his withdrawal from political life, he would do it in unmissiable terms over his own signature, or through some channel the authority of which could not be questioned. In the absence of such announcement, the reported conversation with the "sage of Greystone" are entitled to no consideration or respect."
